

President's message: We have another great Model T event behind us. Saturday, September 5th was a special weather day for our Car Games, Social and a Mexican Fiesta meal. Thank you to Barry and the rest of the Proctor family for cooking and serving the wonderful Mexican Discada. The family was represented by four generations. We had several new cars and new people out, which is always encouraging. There was several first-time drivers and I believe our youngest driver was a young lady of 12 years. Thank you to all that participated and helped make this an outstanding event. It appeared that people were ready to get out and enjoy themselves. It looks like our next club meeting will be a short business meeting during the Fall Colours Tour at Rod Wallace's spread, north of Cochrane on September 26th. Hopefully, the weather will hold and there will still be autumn leaves hanging on. See you all there. Harry Lillo

Me: Please bring me a screwdriver.
Wife: Flat head, Phillips, or Vodka?
And that was when I knew she was the one.

From the Editor. Thanks to Ken Todd and Chris Brancaccio for their articles on DNA Additive and Wheel Lugs, and to Chris Bamford for his attention to the queen's language while proofreading these newsletters . . . (I always leave several tests for him . . . but haven't caught him yet.)

DNA Additive Helps Trace Stolen Fuel

Submitted by Ken Todd

Poisonous snakes often disable their foes with deadly venom. That's why the British company Datatag ID Limited used the name "Venom" for its new fuel additive that allows owners to "tag" their fuel with a traceable DNA solution. Datatag Managing Director Kevin Howells says Venom is a product designed to deter fuel thieves, knowing they could get caught with the pilfered product. Signage on tanks and vehicles identify that Venom is being used. With fuel theft in the UK alone estimated at more than $6 billion annually, the new product is generating a lot of interest. Just a few milliliters of Venom will treat several hundred gallons of fuel. It's especially valuable when treating large quantities in large storage. Howells says that thieves often steal fuel by skimming it off once a tank is full. Those amounts can be placed in handheld containers and transported elsewhere for use. However, once the 'skimmed' fuel that's treated with Venom is used in another vehicle or a tank, traceability is possible. If a fuel thief is suspected and the fuel is located, law enforcement can apply a re-agent to a small sample of the suspected stolen fuel. The DNA in Venom will change the fuel color when the re-agent is added. At this stage, a secondary sample is taken and sent to a laboratory to confirm the fuel's registered owner. Datatag also sells a "whole farm system" of security measures to protect equipment, including RFID transponders placed on machinery and tools, microscopic Datadots®, and UV stealth etching technology. Datatag says the system provides a unique "fingerprint" that thieves can't remove.

We were there to add background and give the residence a time to reminisce while being entertained by a local jazz band. Having been served the meal in these photos, I suspect when we put out their request again, we'll see more of you there!!

Kelsey Loose-lug Wheels

Submitted by Chris Brancaccio

I am working on re-wooding the wheels on our 1923 Canadian Coupe. The first thing discovered were the differences in the lugs & nuts. There are two different kind of lugs, ones with a flat nut and ones with a conical nut. One side of the car has the flat ones, the other side the conical ones. Another discrepancy: two different felloes, one weighs eight lbs. and the other type weighs six lbs. and the heavier one is ¼ inch wider. The heavier ones are stamped KELSEY WHEEL WINDSOR ONT CANADA and have date codes, the other two are stamped KELSEY WHEEL WINDSOR ONT, no CANADA, and no date code. I would guess the heavier style are earlier. I believe the important dimensions are the same - ie. where the rim meets the felloe front & back.

Another discovery - No. 88 30 x 3 1/2 on inside of felloe. I didn't notice this to begin with as it depends where the spoke holes are punched.

A great time was had by all!!

Thanks to Harry and Rosalie Lillo for hosting on September 5 what is becoming an awesome regular event with T games, T driving lessons, FOOD and true Model T socializing. We consumed 50 pounds (yes pounds!!) of the Mexican specialty dish Discada, prepared by Barry Proctor and crew along with dozens of various styles of wieners and dogs. Fifty fine folks enjoyed great 25°+ sunny weather, an open field, shady grounds, and great fellowship.
